

Ladies and gentlemen,

Good morning and a warm welcome to each and every one of you attending this seminar on heritage preservation. We are thrilled to have participants from various fields join us to explore the vital role of preserving our cultural and historical legacy.

Today, we will delve into various aspects of heritage preservation, examining both challenges and innovative solutions. Our goal is to create a platform for sharing knowledge, experiences, and strategies that will help safeguard our invaluable heritage for future generations.

Throughout the day, we have an array of distinguished speakers who will share their insights and expertise in this domain. There will also be opportunities for interactive sessions where you can engage in discussions, ask questions, and share your own perspectives.

We encourage you to make the most of this opportunity to connect, collaborate, and contribute to this important cause. Let us work together to preserve the rich tapestry of our history, ensuring it remains accessible and vibrant for years to come.

Thank you for joining us, and I wish you a fruitful and inspiring seminar.
